We are all dependent on the natural world.

By supporting the work of the Botanic Gardens Trust, you can make a lasting gift to the environment and experience a unique connection with nature.

The Botanic Gardens Trust plays an important role in conserving plants and their habitats. We invite you to share our aspirations and help protect the natural world.

The Botanic Gardens Trust is custodian of four beautiful estates, the Royal Botanic Gardens, Mount Tomah Botanic Garden, Mount Annan Botanic Garden and Sydney's botanic parkland, the Domain.

The natural beauty and significant plant collections make each estate a national treasure to be enjoyed, protected and nourished. The Trust's role, however, extends far beyond caring for these magnificent landscapes. Through our internationally renowned science program the Trust makes an important contribution to the discovery and conservation of the world's flora, the protection of threatened species, and the conservation and restoration of natural habitat.

The continuation of this work is dependent on the generosity of our supporters. By making a unique gift, you can help protect the natural world and create a lasting legacy for future generations.

There are many reasons to make a gift — to celebrate a birth, commemorate a loved one or to simply acknowledge your love of the Gardens and nature. Gifts can be made in each of our three botanic gardens and include:

Adopt a Tree Whether you choose to plant a young tree, selected for its botanical significance or to become the guardian of one of our existing grand old trees, your gift will form a lasting feature of the landscape to be enjoyed now and by future generations.

A tree can be adopted for its full life with a donation of $10,000. Your generosity will be acknowledged in many ways, including a dedication plaque, certificate of adoption and photograph.

Adopt a Wollemi Pine

The Wollemi Walk of Discovery in Mount Annan Botanic Garden displays the only collection of genetic replicas from the protected grove in the Wollemi National Park.

By adopting one of these pines you will ensure the protection of this important collection. A Wollemi Pine can be adopted for a donation of $2000.

Dedicate a Bench

Dedicating one of our elegant benches is a wonderful way to experience a unique connection with the Gardens. The beautiful inscriptions bring life to memories, celebrations and tributes and add a lovely sentiment to the fabric of our Gardens. Benches are dedicated for a period of 10 years. The donation for a bench dedication is $10,000 in the Royal Botanic Gardens and $4000 in Mount Annan and Mount Tomah Botanic Gardens.

Foster a Tree

Trees are the backbone of our ecological systems. Fostering a tree for a year is a wonderful way to help to protect the environment whilst making a unique gift.

Choose your favourite tree in one of our botanic gardens and receive a certificate of foster care. A tree may be fostered for a donation of $200.
